Post Apollo Press, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 146 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Poetry. California Interest. "TOO MUCH HAPPENS is a collection that mingles personal and major social concerns in an attempt to give voice to a sense of increasing fear for a cherished world in crisis. Catastrophic wars, child soldiers, dried lake beds, the relentless onslaught of bad news. What shall we do with what we know? TOO MUCH HAPPENS poses a question for which no answer is clear in a world skirting a perilous edge. Days, slaves to the sun, / the sun herds them into shadows. // A valley fills with traveled light / and snowmelt. Once you step in between these lines, you know you ve reached home: heart- and-mind, the body-and soul of why poetry matters. Nearly one of a kind, Kathleen Weaver lyrically weaves love and social awareness with language. To a cyber-bashed, corporatized, red-lit planet prison, her bright voice rejoices in green-lights." Al Young.
